COMPUTER TRAINING PROGRAM

This month, the computer teacher covered the following topics:

- Students engaged in an immersive learning experience, crafting dynamic resumes with the powerful suite of Microsoft tools at their fingertips.
- They explored Excel shortcuts, mastering techniques like extending cells and efficiently filling tables with just a few keystrokes.
- To reinforce their knowledge, a comprehensive revision test on VLOOKUP formulas challenged their problem-solving skills.
- Meanwhile, old students diligently curated their practical files, showcasing their growth and understanding from previous lessons.

SWAD SCHOOL PROGRESS REPORT

- Class - Pre-Nursery
- Class teacher - Mrs. Preeti
- Anvi, a student in pre-nursery, initially showed a keen interest in reading and writing. However, once she completed her tasks, she would quickly lose interest and rush to go home. Observing this, her teacher decided to engage her in various activities within the classroom, smart room and playroom. She was also introduced to flashcards, which made learning more attractive and fun. Over time, these engaging activities sparked her curiosity and her enthusiasm for learning. As a result, Anvi's behaviour began to shift. She became more focused and involved in the classroom. Now, she is fully engaged and enjoys her lessons, demonstrating significant improvement in her attitude and learning.

- Class - Nursery
- Class teacher - Mrs. Geeta
- Kartik is a student of nursery class who initially struggled with speaking clearly, often stammering while trying to express himself. Despite this, he showed a strong ability in written tasks, completing them accurately and efficiently. Recognising his difficulty, his teacher adopted a supportive approach to help him improve his speech. She gave him ample time to practice speaking, encouraging him to express his thoughts without feeling rushed. The teacher gradually reduced the time allotted for daily activities, providing Kartik with opportunities to focus on speaking at his own pace. Through this continuous support and practice, he grew more confident and no longer stammered and even recited poems with fluency and confidence.

- Class - L.K.G
- Class teacher - Mrs. Lata
- This month, Umang, an LKG student, has made remarkable progress in both his attitude and performance. At the beginning of the session, he struggled with irregular attendance and was often absent from school. His inconsistency in attending classes was affecting his overall development. However, his class teacher encouraged him to attend school daily by promising a reward for consistent attendance. Slowly, Umang started to take this advice seriously and began attending school more regularly. As a result, his attitude towards his studies began to change. He became more passionate and committed to learning and attending school every day, and actively participated in all the activities. This improvement shows how motivation and encouragement can help a student make significant strides.

- Class - U.K.G
- Class teacher - Mrs. Saroj
- Raunak is an enthusiastic and bright student in the UKG class. He is always eager to learn new concepts and actively participates in class activities. However, there is one area where he struggled; that is, his tendency to rush through his work, which often caused him to make spelling mistakes and resulted in poor handwriting. Despite these challenges, Raunak demonstrated excellent learning abilities and quickly understood new concepts. His class teacher noticed this pattern and advised him to slow down and focus on doing his work carefully, rather than hurrying. Raunak took this advice to heart and started to make a conscious effort to slow down and pay more attention to details. As a result, not only the accuracy of his work but also the neatness of his handwriting improved significantly.

Alambana Program

SWAD SCHOOL PROGRESS REPORT

- Class - Alambana
- Class teacher - Miss Antima
- Vivan, a student of the Alambana class, initially kept to himself and did not speak or play with the other students. On observing his shyness, the class teacher began greeting him with a simple “Good morning” every day. To her surprise, Vivan started smiling in response and eventually began to wish me “Good morning”. This small exchange of greetings was the first sign of improvement in his behaviour. As time passed, Vivan’s confidence grew. He began asking for permission to eat his food and to go to the toilet, something he had never done before. He also started sitting properly in class and became more involved with his classmates, talking to them and even playing with them during breaks. Day by day, Vivan showed noticeable improvement in his social interactions and behaviour. He made friends and was comfortable in the classroom.

ACTIVITIES OF SWAD SCHOOL FOR THIS MONTH:

This month, in honour of Basant Panchami, children enthusiastically participated in creative activities. They coloured beautiful lotus flowers and veena instruments, both of which symbolise the connection to Goddess Saraswati, the deity of knowledge and arts.

In addition to this, the students also explored another art form: onion painting. Using an onion as a stamp, they painted floral patterns, adding a playful touch to their artistic expressions, making Basant Panchami even more memorable and engaging.
